University of London International Programmes

A degree from the University of London is a mark of excellence, respected by employers and universities worldwide. This is because the University of London is one of the world's leading universities, internationally recognised for its high academic standards. This reputation is based on the outstanding teaching and research of its 18 world-class Colleges and 10 specialist institutes.

Since 1858, University of London degrees have been accessible to students all over the world through the University of London International Programmes. Alumni of the University of London International Programmes include seven Nobel Prize winners, leaders of Commonwealth countries, government ministers, renowned authors, academics and business leaders.

Academic direction for all of the courses offered through the University of London International Programmes is provided by Colleges of the University. Academics at these Colleges develop the syllabuses, prepare the study materials, and are responsible for the assessment of students. This means that students benefit from the academic rigour and leading-edge research undertaken by the Colleges.

It also helps to ensure that University of London qualifications are of the same high academic standard, however they are achieved. On successful completion of their studies, students will be awarded a University of London degree. The final diploma states that students were registered with the University of London and awarded a University of London degree. It also gives the name of the University of London College that conducted the examinations.
